

Coffee, Gadget, Both or Nothing

When my kids were younger, we used to sit in the lobby of our building waiting for their mom to come home from work. To pass the time, we played a game we affectionately called Coffee, Gadget, Both, or Nothing. The rules were simple: if someone walked by carrying a drink, they were a “Coffee.” If they held a piece of tech, they were a “Gadget.” If they had both, you guessed it - “Both.” And if they had neither, they were a “Nothing.”

For the full article, check out the blog at <https://www.manhattancoachingassociates.com>